Where Play Meets LearningTM

CATALOGUE
2022

Finding a toy that is both educational and fun is not an easy task—and once you find it, figuring out how to get the most out of it is even harder! With these concerns at the heart of our design process, we're creating toys that build skills in key developmental areas without sacrificing the joy of play.

Made with care and based in research, our toys also come with learning materials to help parents nurture their little one's natural love for learning.

OUR 7 KEY DEVELOPMENTAL SKILL SETS

GROSS MOTOR skills involve movement of larger muscle groups, such as arms and legs. Babies use these muscle groups to sit up, turn over, crawl, and walk. As they get older, they'll use them to run, jump, and keep their balance.

FINE MOTOR skills involve movement of smaller muscle groups, such as hands, fingers, and wrists. Kids need these skills to hold a pencil, draw, and write.

SPEECH & LANGUAGE skills refer to a child's ability to understand, use, and combine speech sounds and words. These skills allow them to communicate effectively with others.

SOCIAL & EMOTIONAL skills include identifying, regulating, and expressing emotions and feelings in socially and culturally appropriate ways.

COGNITIVE skills include thinking, remembering, and concentrating. These skills facilitate a child's learning journey and help them acquire other skill sets.

IMAGINATION & CREATIVITY refer to a child's ability to invent original ideas and think creatively to solve problems.

STEM skills relate to Science, Technology, Engineering or Math. This skill set includes prerequisite, toddler-level skills, such as number perception, pattern recognition, and matching.
